To our esteemed Daubert Brasil customers,

Daubert Brasil is proud to be your supplier of world class VCI protective packaging. To keep pace with your growing demands for superior quality and service, Daubert Brasil has installed a new management team at our manufacturing facility in Limeira, Sao Paulo. They are tasked with providing you with the industry leading products and service you expect.

General Manager Robson Bicudo will be responsible for production and logistics, reporting directly to Roy Galman, Executive Vice President of Global Operations at Daubert Cromwell USA. Ana Kammarman, Director of Business Development for South America, will lead our team of technical experts in sales and applications, as well as our team of professional customer service representatives. Caio Figueiredo and his team of chemists and technicians will be responsible for quality and technical services in Brazil. Each of these business leaders has years of experience in the production, application and testing of VCI protection packaging. They are backed by the more than 80 years of experience that Daubert Cromwell has in the production of packaging, liquid and corrosion protection devices used by multinational companies around the world.

We are excited about these recent changes and the wide range of capabilities Daubert Brasil can now offer to the rapidly expanding Brazilian market. Your business is very important to us. We hope to be helpful and provide the necessary resources to protect your products against corrosion. Please do not hesitate to contact us for assistance in solving your specific corrosion protection needs.

Regards,

Martin J. Simpson
President and CEO
Daubert Cromwell, LLC and
